

PUBLICATION

Disability Resources

Peter W. Cline

February 23, 2021

We understand it can be confusing navigating the various disability resources online. That's why we have compiled some of them here for you:

In addition to any individual or group disability insurance benefits you might be entitled to, you could also qualify for Canada Pension Plan (CPP) disability benefits. To find out more information about this federal government programme, see the following link:

- Canada Pension Plan \(CPP\) disability benefits

Employment Insurance (EI) sickness benefits are another potential source of income replacement for you in the event you are unable to work for medical reasons. This is a short-term programme that pays up to 15 weeks. For more information, see the following link:

- Employment Insurance \(EI\) sickness benefits

Assured Income for the Severely Handicapped (AISH) is an Alberta Government programme that provides financial and health benefits to qualified individuals who have a permanent medical condition that prevents them from earning a living. To find out more information about this programme, see the following link:

- Assured Income for the Severely Handicapped \(AISH\)

The disability tax credit (DTC) is a federal government tax credit that helps persons with disabilities or their supporting persons reduce the amount of income tax they may have to pay. Qualifying for the DTC may also open the door to other like programmes. See the following link for more information:

Disability tax credit