

PUBLICATION

Saskatoon Farm Food Poisoning

Kimberley (Kim) A. Bufton

September 24, 2025
Understanding the Risks

E. Coli infections can cause lifelong injuries and debilitating complications, especially in children and older adults. Common symptoms include nausea, vomiting, fever, and diarrhea, which can progress to bloody diarrhea or blood in the stool.

Amoebiasis is caused by a parasite called Entamoeba histolytica. While symptoms may not appear right away, the infection can spread and cause severe complications in the liver, lungs, heart, or brain.

If you or a loved one are experiencing symptoms, do not delay seeking medical care. Even if you are not experiencing symptoms, it is recommended you call Health Link at 811 for amoebiasis screening. You can read more information from AHS here.

How We're Helping

Our Personal Injury team is acting for individuals and families who became seriously ill after eating at Saskatoon Farm. If you consumed food, beverages, or water at Saskatoon Farm between July 1-18 and have experienced serious illness, hospitalization, or complications, you may have legal options to recover compensation for your losses.

What to Do Next

1. Seek medical care and follow your doctor's advice.
2. Document everything: receipts, photos, medical records, and any communication with AHS.
3. Contact us for a free confidential consultation.

Contact Us

Kim Bufton, Partner

Email: kbufton@mcleod-law.com

Online Form: Click here

Why McLeod Law?

- Proven track record in complex foodborne illness and personal injury claims
- Alberta-based team with decades of litigation experience
- Recognized leaders and the Top-Listed Firm in Calgary and Alberta for Personal Injury Litigation by Best Lawyers in Canada.
- Compassionate approach. We put your recovery and peace of mind first.