Personal injuries require personalized solutions.

Anne is a results driven litigator focused on obtaining compensation for individuals injured in motor vehicle accidents, harmed by medical negligence, and wrongfully denied disability benefits or insurance coverage.

Before beginning her legal career, Anne spent 10 years using technology to resolve accessibility issues for Alberta Health Services patients and employees. She continues to apply her knowledge of the medical system and experience resolving patient challenges to ensure her clients have access to the medical care they require.

Anne has advocated for injured individuals and acted for insurance companies. Her prime directive is to obtain outcomes that address the unique needs of her clients, whether through dispute resolution or litigation.
