Clients appreciate my diligence and dedication to getting the job done right.

Daniel acts for buyers and sellers of various residential and retail properties, as well as business owners, lenders, borrowers, landlords, tenants, and commercial developers to advise them on deal structuring, drafting, review, negotiation, and conveyancing in real estate law.

Additionally, he also advises clients on general corporate and commercial matters, including:

- mergers and acquisitions
- corporate structuring and reorganization
- corporate lending and financing
- employment and shareholder agreements
- commercial/business transactional agreements

He has represented private corporations concerning corporate governance, director and officer duties and responsibilities, and other contractual and business matters.
