Georgia Coughlan holds a Bachelor of Arts with distinction in Sociology and Gender Studies (double major) from the University of Alberta. Prior to pursuing a legal education, Georgia gained valuable experience working as a legal assistant and office manager at a criminal defense and family law boutique.

More recently, she served as a Judicial Assistant in the Office of the Chief Justice at the Alberta Court of Justice, formerly known as the Provincial Court of Alberta. In addition to her professional work, Georgia volunteers as a caseworker with Student Legal Assistance at the University of Calgary.

Outside of her academic and professional pursuits, Georgia enjoys cooking, spending quality time with her partner and their mini dachshund, and exploring new restaurants.
